Programme

Interiors of the Art Nouveau period analyse, restore, make accessible

29 and 30 November 2019

The Réseau Art Nouveau Network, a European network for the study, protection and enhancement of the Art Nouveau heritage, is celebrating its 20th anniversary this year.

urban.brussels, founding member of RANN, is hosting an international symposium in Brussels, co-organised by RANN and urban.brussels in partnership with the Horta Museum and CIVA.

The research and progress of our knowledge of Art Nouveau has always been one of RANN's primary objectives. While Art Nouveau is visible to everyone in the public space and while many European cities are adorned with Art Nouveau facades, the interiors arouse both from the academic world and from the general public many questions related to their access, their knowledge, and the refined restorations that they require.

This topic of interiors has not yet been scientifically studied transversally in Europe; the aim of this symposium is to confront research practices, knowledge, the conservation and enhancement of Art Nouveau interiors, in order to develop new research perspectives.

Book launch « Belgian Art Nouveau : Vision, Design & Craft. Victor Horta, Georges Hobé, Fernand Dubois, Paul Dubois, Léon Ledru »

Presentation of the first of the four volumes of the « Belgian Art Nouveau belge » project. Promoted by the Horta Museum Editions, the collector Jonathan Mangelinckx and the art historian Borys Delobbe (UCLouvain), the series "Belgian Art Nouveau: Vision, Design & Craft" intends to renew our understanding of the different looks that have crossed in Belgium in the struggle for a new aesthetic in applied arts at the turn of the 19th century.

Besides Victor Horta as a pivotal point, the first volume offers an unprecedented look at the work of four other actors of the Belgian Art Nouveau: the metal craftsmen Fernand Dubois and Paul Du Bois, the decorator architect Georges Hobé and finally Leon Ledru, the emblematic figure of Cristalleries du Val Saint-Lambert.

Street Art Nouveau - CIVA

Exhibition of the works done by the children who took part in the Street Art Nouveau workshop, organised by the CIVA from 26 to 30 August 2019 and animated by Stéphan André, visual artist.

Combining the formal vocabulary of Art Nouveau with street art techniques was the challenge given to young trainees (10-14 years old). After discovering Art Nouveau during a visit to the Horta Museum and using documents from the CIVA collections, the children proposed a reinterpretation of the style using street art-stencils, the bomb, graffiti. Thus one of the famous portraits of the architect Victor Horta has been completely revisited in the manner of urban artists.

Des courbes de l'Art nouveau aux lignes épurées de l'Art Déco

Le centre-ville nous mène aux somptueux magasins Waucquez et Wolfers. Aujourd'hui devenus respectivement, le Centre Belge de la Bande Dessinée et un magasin, ils sont les seuls espaces commerciaux à subsister. Horta est un artiste fertile cherchant toujours l'innovation et le renouvellement. Après la première guerre mondiale et son voyage en Amérique, Horta développe un style plus dépouillé et géométrique: l'Art Décoratif. L'exemple le plus représentatif de cette période de l'architecte est la façade du Bozar. Car il s'agit bien d'une façade signée Horta. Plus étonnant encore: c'est lui qui élabore la Gare Centrale de notre chère Bruxelles.

Taverns that tell the splendour of Art Nouveau and Art Deco

The prewar Brussels pubs offer a wide variety of atmospheres and some of them have kept their Art Nouveau or Art Deco decoration. The stained glass windows, elegant curved woodwork, precious fabrics, mirrors and shining counters are still witnesses of the Belle Epoque, the Roaring Twenties & Jazzy Thirties. They also tell us about the evolution of trends and tastes: from the well-lit, big & noisy brasseries of the turn of the century to the more discreet, cosy and intimate bars of the interwar period.

Cauchie house's guided tour

In 1905, architect and decorator Paul Cauchie designed his own private house. The style of his architecture is inspired by the Glasgow School, being a perfect combination of symmetry, verticality and geometry. The former artist's workshop and cellar have been transformed into an exhibition space, with a collection of works and documents by Paul and his wife Lina Cauchie, both artists. When the house was destined for demolition in the 1970's, a couple of heart and soul enthusiasts saved the house and carried out an exemplary restoration. The work on the façade's sgraffito stands today as a reference in its domain.

1001 facets of Art Nouveau

Art Nouveau comes in many ways, one more original than the other. The geometric and organic influences give the buildings surprising peculiarities, reflections of the sensibilities of the architect and the sponsor. This tour invites you to a discovery of typical 1900 style façades, around the former neighbourhood of the leading Art Nouveau architect Victor Horta.

Visite guidée de la maison Cauchie

En 1905, l'architecte-décorateur Paul Cauchie dessine les plans et construit son habitation personnelle. L'architecture de la façade, inspirée de l'école de Glasgow, allie symétrie, verticalité et géométrie parfaites. L'ancien et vaste atelier de l'artiste a été adapté en galerie afin d'exposer les œuvres et documents de Paul et son épouse Lina, tous deux artistes. Vouée à la démolition dans les années 1970, la maison a été sauvée par un couple de passionnés qui ont entrepris un travail de restauration exemplaire - celui concernant les sgraffites de façade est devenu une référence dans ce domaine.

The Ultieme Hallucinatie

The Ultieme Hallucinatie is an iconic venue for many inhabitants of Brussels. Originally built as a Neo-Classical town house, it was given an extraordinarily diverse new interior in the Viennese Art Nouveau style by Paul Hamesse in 1904. It was converted into a bar-restaurant in 1980, but that business closed down and it was left empty for several years before being purchased by its current owner, who has undertaken a comprehensive restoration. ARAU has exclusive access for guided tours of this Art Nouveau gem.
